Additional Parking is available at the rear of the parking lot behind Jefferson Hospital.
University Educational Center (UEC)

This “H”-shaped building contains a seating area in the lower atrium, PBL classrooms and administration offices. The RowanSOM restrooms can be found on both levels.

There is a pleasant landscaped courtyard outside the lower level entrance which includes the OsteoPath and picnic tables. The OsteoPath features engraved bricks from RowanSOM alumni and friends.
Rowan Medicine (RM)

The Rowan Medicine building was completed in 2003 and houses all Stratford-based patient care services and clinical educational programs, including the CARES Institute and the New Jersey Institute for Successful Aging. The facility also houses a state-of-the-art Clinical Skills and Assessment Center, a large classroom, a dedicated OMT laboratory and the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences.

Curbside, on Laurel Road, directly in front of the University Educational Center, is a bus stop provided by New Jersey Transit.
Science Center (SC)

This state-of-the-art facility contains the RowanSOM’s Basic Science, teaching and research labs and a vivarium. The Science Center is a secured building and is for authorized users only (card-access system).
The Academic Center is heavily utilized by first and second year RowanSOM students. It houses the library, classrooms, study rooms, lounge area, teaching labs, gross anatomy lab, computer labs and electronic classrooms as well as the Academic Affairs office. It also features the Wellness Center (fitness center). An ATM machine (TD Bank) is located on the first level.
Jefferson Health System is the RowanSOM core teaching affiliate. A cafeteria is located on the ground floor. Enter through the rear main entrance, walk straight through the lobby past the elevators and make a right.
Living in South Jersey

About South Jersey
The RowanSOM campus is located in Camden County and is part of the greater Philadelphia metropolitan area in the Delaware Valley. The town of Stratford has deep historical roots. Two hundred years ago, like today, the White Horse Pike (Rt. 30) was a major highway. Stratford, a day’s ride from Philadelphia, was a popular stage coach stop.

Many South Jersey towns can trace their beginning to colonial times. Camden County’s rich colonial heritage is graphically preserved in historic Haddonfield. Located along King’s Highway, a few miles from RowanSOM, Haddonfield contains many restored per-revolutionary structures. The entire town is a registered historical landmark.

More recently, the construction of numerous highways and bridges has resulted in a population boom. The easy commute to downtown Philadelphia has attracted builders to Camden County and resulted in the sprawling mass of housing developments, strip malls and parking lots that are characteristic of the area today. Fortunately, a large portion of South Jersey is protected from development; the Pinelands, which start in Camden County and stretch into six other counties, contain over one million acres of protected wilderness.

These factors contribute to South Jersey’s unique character. While traveling the main highways, a visitor may think South Jersey is one huge suburb. Turn onto a side road however, and the area gives a rural appearance. Residents of South Jersey have the best of both worlds. They can enjoy the excitement and convenience of living in a major metropolitan area as well as the quiet of the country.

Transportation
By Automobile:
The RowanSOM campus is located on Laurel Road, just off of U.S. Rt. 30 (White Horse Pike). Rt. 30 is the main road between Philadelphia (north) and Atlantic City (south), intersecting with the New Jersey Turnpike and Interstate I-295.

By Bus:
Bus transportation is provided by New Jersey Transit (NJT). The bus stop on the RowanSOM campus is located at the curb on Laurel Road directly in front of the University Educational Center. For more information, call NJT: 1-973-275-5555, www.njtransit.com.
By Subway:
The PATCO speed line offers service to and from several South Jersey communities and downtown Philadelphia. The campus stop is at Lindenwold (Rt.30 and Laurel Road). In Philadelphia, PATCO intersects with the city’s two main subway lines: the SEPTA Market-Frankford line at the 8th Street Station (follow the blue signs) and the SEPTA Broad Street Subway at the 13th and 15th Street Stations (follow the orange signs).

If you are planning to take SEPTA, discounted transfers can be purchased at the PATCO Lindenwold Station. The Philadelphia regional rail commuter station at Market East is accessible to the PATCO line. From PATCO’s 8th & Market stop, follow the underground passageway to the Gallery Mall. Enter the Market East Train Station inside the Mall. For more information, call PATCO: (856) 772-6900, www.ridepatco.org, and/or SEPTA: (215) 580-7800, www.septa.org.
